LEARNING TOGETHER AT HOME: WEEK 9

It's week 9 and 24th May is Northumberland Day! This week's activities are all things you can do to celebrate living in Northumberland. Click here to find out about Kim Lewis who writes children's stories set in Northumberland. You might like to share one of these together.

We have lots of castles in Northumberland. Have you been to any? See if you build a castle using things like blocks, sand, stones or cardboard boxes.

Click here to listen to some music played on the Northumbrian pipes. Can you dance along to it? Do you like the sounds of the pipes?

Visit a Northumberland stream or river. Play Pooh Sticks and watch where the sticks go. Can you follow the stream and find out where it goes?

1)

Click here and listen to Amy singing 'Dance to your

Ð

Daddy'. Can you dance along and join in with the words?

> Can you find my friend Memphis hiding in these different places in Northumberland?

Click here to see Catrin standing by the statue of a famous lady from Morpeth. Do you know who it is? We have lots of woodland spaces in Northumberland. Can you visit one and find a tree to climb? Or maybe you could play hide and seek in amongst the trees?
